Rationale:

- The manager has increased conviction that aggressive Central Bank tightening will likely push Canada and the US into recession within the forecast period. Pent-up demand, excess savings and fiscal infrastructure spend will likely lessen the economic impact of higher rates and the manager expects many companies to weather a mild recession without lasting impact. However, it seems prudent to reduce risk in anticipation of market volatility continuing through the fall. For that reason, Canadian equities and preferred shares were reduced with proceeds added to cash and fixed income.
- Manulife has been reduced in the last couple of quarters and the small remaining position was eliminated this quarter. Scotiabank was trimmed while existing exposures of other bank holdings where the manager feels that the risk reward is better for the current economic outlook were maintained. Scotiabank has lower sensitivity to higher rates than some of the other Canadian Banks. It also has lower capital levels and reserve levels. Recent news of the Scotiabank CEO succession plan also introduces some uncertainty.

Quarterly commentary

The third quarter of 2022 continued to be quite challenging across a variety of asset classes, with all major equity markets posting negative absolute returns. The Bank of Canada accelerated the pace of monetary policy tightening by raising the overnight target rate by 1.75% during the third quarter to 3.25%. Similarly, the Federal Reserve tightened their target range by a total of 1.50%, while also signaling more to follow. Within bonds, shorter term (1- 7 year) interest rates rose significantly in the third quarter as the bond market reacted to more aggressive tightening of monetary policy. In contrast, longer term (10 year and longer) rates were almost unchanged causing the yield curve to invert further. Canadian stocks were negatively driven by weak returns from Real Estate, Telecommunications and Energy, while the Industrial and Consumer Discretionary sectors were the strongest relative performing sectors. Global equities delivered negative returns as non-North American markets continued to be hurt by uncertainty surrounding the Russian invasion of Ukraine, and weak economic momentum. Real Estate and Telecommunications were the most negative, offset by positive results from Consumer Discretionary. The Canadian dollar depreciated versus its US counterpart during the quarter by 6.2%. The relevant index returns for the Portfolio in the third quarter were: Dow Jones Canada Select Dividend Index (-4.32%), the S&P/TSX Preferred Shares Index (-6.07%) the FTSE Canada Universe Bond Index (+0.52%), the FTSE Canada Short-Term Bond Index (-0.31%), and the FTSE Canada Corporate Bond Index (+0.23%).

The Portfolio declined -0.77% during the second quarter but was able to preserve capital relative to the benchmark decline of -1.27%.

Over the one-year period, the Portfolio returned -6.06% and outperformed the benchmark by 3.38%. While absolute performance in most asset classes declined, the Portfolio's Canadian dividend equities, preferred shares, fixed income and commercial mortgages components outpaced their benchmarks.

Looking forward, the manager expects global growth to fall below longer-term trends as demand declines due to stimulus withdrawal and demand erosion from inflation pressures. The risk of a recession has increased due to tighter financial conditions from aggressive central bank tightening. Inflation pressure should peak by the end of 2022 but remain above central bank targets due to supply chain issues, elevated commodity prices, and increasing labour costs. The diffusion of inflation has broadened and with sticky components causing the overall price level to remain higher for longer. In addition, dislocations in the labour markets with more job openings than available workers continue to put pressure on wages. Against the backdrop of slowing economic growth, with continuing inflation pressures, Central Banks will be forced to choose between maintaining the inflation focus versus pivoting to stimulate growth. In terms of potential risks to the manager's forecast, there is the potential for the path of inflation to be more persistent causing Central Banks to maintain tighter policy conditions for longer. As a result, this could cause more significant demand destruction and a deeper recession. Given this backdrop, the manager decided it was prudent to reduce risk in anticipation of market volatility continuing through the Fall. As such, the Canadian Equities exposure was reduced further recently and the proceeds were put into cash.
